

LEARNING OUTCOMES
Business/Accounting/OST
Marva Pryor / George Witta

- 1. Communicate effectively in diverse environments. (12)
2. Develop software and hardware skills as life-long learners. (4)
- 3. Acquire critical thinking skills and apply them to life-long learning within the business field. (17)
- 4. Develop an awareness of business ethics and the consequences of unethical behavior. (17)
5. The student should be able to utilize the information contained on Financial Reports to make business decisions. (6)
6. The student should be able to explain the accounting cycle from transaction analysis through statement preparation and budgeting.(4)

NEXT STEP

Sharing of learning activities currently being used in the classrooms to promote communications skills.

Opportunities for college wide discipline specific meetings throughout the academic year.

Information/process on how to include adjuncts.

Gather teaching artifacts.

Make sure that those involved in the process understand assessment.

Take advantage of Title III, V, Destination Projects that are available online.

Follow up with students/employers with surveys regarding outcome performance.

Input from local employers as to what they want from potential employees.